Website Summary

MoneyMap: The Personal Finance Blueprint for Teens is a simple, jargon-free educational website that introduces young people and first-time money learners to everyday personal finance. Its purpose is to make financial concepts approachable through short explanations, practical reminders, and quick self-checks.

Target Audience

Teenagers, students, and young adults who are beginning to learn about saving, budgeting, credit, work income, investing, and education costs.

Core Contents and Page Functions

• Bank Accounts — Learn what a bank account does, how deposits work, and what to check before opening an account.

• Checking vs. Savings — Compare everyday spending accounts with savings accounts and learn when each can help.

• How Interest Works — Understand interest as the cost of borrowing or the reward for saving money.

• High-Yield Savings Accounts — Explore how higher savings rates work and what fees or requirements to review.

• Creating Your First Budget — Build a realistic plan for money coming in, money going out, and goals you care about.

• The 50/30/20 Rule — Try a simple budgeting guideline and learn how to adjust it to your real circumstances.

• What Is a Credit Score? — Get a beginner-friendly overview of credit scores and the habits that may affect them.

• How to Build Credit Safely — Learn cautious, age-appropriate ways to prepare for credit and avoid unnecessary debt.

• Part-Time Job Taxes — Understand pay slips, tax withholding, and why local rules matter for young workers.

• Saving for College — Explore ways to estimate education costs and start saving toward a future goal.

• Intro to Investing — Learn the basic relationship between risk, return, diversification, and time.

• Compound Interest Magic — See how interest can earn interest over time, and why starting early can matter.

• Avoiding Debt Traps — Recognize costly borrowing patterns and make safer decisions before taking on debt.

• Mobile Budgeting Apps — Compare common budgeting-app features and protect your privacy when choosing tools.

• Student Financial Aid Guide — Find out what scholarships, grants, and other education-support options may involve.

• Homepage (index.html) — introduces the concept, lists all 15 guides, and links visitors to individual topics.

Design and Technical Features

• Semantic HTML5 structure using header, nav, main, section, article, aside, and footer.

• External stylesheet contains all presentation rules.

• Responsive layouts use CSS Grid, Flexbox, and media queries.

• Accessible mobile navigation and interactive quick-check checkboxes.

• Keyboard focus styles, skip link, and reduced-motion support.

• Educational disclaimer notes that local rules may vary.

Deployment

Upload all HTML files, styles.css, and script.js to the root of a public GitHub repository. Enable GitHub Pages under Settings → Pages. After deployment, replace the live URL placeholder on the title page and submit the same URL to the class portal. The website has not been deployed automatically; the final public URL must be generated by the student's hosting account.

Source Code Appendix

Full source code for all HTML pages and shared CSS/JavaScript follows. Each file starts on a new page.
